

RSM McGladrey announces partnership with Deltek®

Combined government contractor focus brings more value to clients

(Vienna, Va., December 13, 2007)- RSM McGladrey, a leading national provider of accounting, tax and business consulting services to growing companies, has announced today that it has entered into a national agreement with Deltek, a leading national provider of enterprise applications software for project-focused organizations. The agreement allows RSM McGladrey to resell and support three Deltek products – Deltek Costpoint® and Deltek GCS Premier®, both designed specifically for government contractors, and Deltek Vision®, which is geared to professional services companies. This partnership will be managed by Dan Guessford, director in the Technology Business Solutions Group for RSM McGladrey's Mid-Atlantic region.

Both RSM McGladrey and Deltek focus on serving the unique needs of government contractors, which operate under a level of scrutiny that is unique to their industry. Drawing on this specialized knowledge, RSM McGladrey and Deltek can deliver integrated total solutions consulting and technology products, respectively, that ensure clients implement the right systems to support their business processes, satisfy stakeholders and comply with government requirements.

Deltek's products are designed from the foundation up to help government contractors account for costs, revenues and profits by project, and provide audit trails, trends and processes visible to all the stakeholders from internal management to Federal Agency customers. RSM McGladrey's expertise in accounting, tax, IT and business operations means we can guide clients through effective product implementation and provide ongoing support to align technology and processes for maximum performance, profitability and compliance.

"Our relationship with Deltek is very much aligned with our national strategy to bring a comprehensive range of products and services to our clients," said Mike Miller, managing director and national consulting services leader for RSM McGladrey. "As the largest national accounting, tax and business consulting services provider to partner with Deltek, we are positioned to create a really powerful value proposition in the marketplace. Our blend of deep industry knowledge and high-quality, relevant information technology solutions are an excellent fit for growing government contractors."

Clients agree that this combination brings added value to their overall technology strategy. "RSM McGladrey's diverse consulting capabilities provide the total solution consulting services that our firm needs as a government contractor with worldwide operations," said Dale S. Butler, vice president and controller of The Services Group, Inc. "This is a tremendous advantage for our business to be able to access the right people when needed."

"Deltek is pleased to announce its association with one of the nation's leading consulting and advisory firms. We look forward to working with RSM McGladrey's high quality sales and professional services teams to provide effective solutions to our customers," responded Greg Sybersma, VP of Channel Sales and Alliances for Deltek.

RSM McGladrey's Technology Business Solutions Group works with mid-sized businesses to objectively assess their requirements and help select the most appropriate solution for growing businesses. Our broad skill set includes technology selection, support and consulting services to bring clients best-in-class technology solutions and best practices for effective implementation and utilization for overall process improvement and maximum value.
